On the trail of Doctor Who

We watched Andy Crane and the BBC showed a preview of Doctor Who (Wednesdays BBC1). Now we know he's got away from the Daleks. It spoils the fun knowing what happens to him. Couldn't we just have reminders of what's happened the week before?

ANDY CRANE replies: I'm sorry if the bits of 'Doctor Who' you saw spoiled the programme for you (I hate it when that happens too!). I promise I'll let everyone know how you feel!

Daleks rise to the occasion

I watched in horror as, in the final moments of a recent episode of Doctor Who (Wednesdays BBC1), a Dalek levitated to exterminate Sylvester McCoy. It was in the sure knowledge that Daleks could not climb stairs that thousands of children went to bed on Saturday night (unless they lived in a bungalow and just hoped for the best!).

Also, I think you should inform all the other Time Lords that the Daleks now operate a time travel service. I think all available information on Daleks (ie, films) should be made public to counter this threat.
